

Why
be frustrated
watching sport when you could be taking part?

The Corinthian Cup

Just six months to go

With 20 teams already signed up and another five being assembled, the Corinthian Cup is up and running. This does not, however, preclude late entries either by teams or individuals keen to join others in forming one. If you or your friends or family would like to be involved please just email corinthiancup@gmail.com to let us know.

It is quite understood that people are busy and may not be able spare a full fortnight and so a good degree of flexibility will be available over which days teams and pairs play. Again, just let us know about any existing commitments to see if we can accommodate these and thus let you take part in what is set to be a truly memorable event.

GETTING SIGNED UP

For new teams still to book their place, the Team Entry Form remains available on the website (at www.corinthiancup.com) and now, so too is the Individual Entry Form. It would be most helpful if all players could complete and submit their entry form and make their payment as soon as possible. Knowing numbers (both of players and social partners) will assist in finalising the main social events. Similarly, having an idea of the likely popularity of the optional events will help us to focus on organising the right ones - whether that proves to be an evening at the Newmarket races, cricket at Fenners or a tour of St Albans Cathedral.

A GREAT OPPORTUNITY FOR SPONSORS

Now the Cup is fully committed to, sponsors are being sought and encouraging interest is already being shown. If you or anyone you know might like to take advantage of the event as a sponsor, please let us know (see email address above) and we will send you/them a pack setting out the opportunities.

GREAT VENUES FOR THE SOCIAL EVENTS

Along with the classically timeless venues of Trinity and St John's colleges we seemed to have picked a modern winner too, as IWM Duxford celebrated a big win at the UK Event Awards 2011 scooping the award for Best Unusual Venue for it's unique setting and events facilities.

